POETRY.

From 'Marco Visconti'—a Romance by Miss C. Ward.
Appeal of a minstrel who has fallen into the hands of a banditti.—

To the Hon. Senate and House of Representatives, in General Court assembled:

THE PETITION of the undersigned respectfully represents, that they are owners and interested in a certain quantity of land, being about one hundred and fifty thousand square rods, in the Wasterly part of Boston, in the county of Suffolk, bounding Easterly on Brighton street and extending to the channel of Charles River; that the said flats at low tide are exposed to the action of the air, and are a great annoyance to the neighborhood, rendering it very desirable that the same should be filled up with solid earth, the expense of which, compared with the actual value of the land, would be large, and that to effect this desired object they respectfully ask your honorable bodies to grant them an act of incorporation, authorizing them to fill up and make land of the said flats, and to hold the same with usual corporate privileges. And as in due hold will ever pray,

EDWARD A. RAYMOND, and others.

September 2, 1835.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,

In Senate, Jan. 23, 1836.

On the Petition aforesaid, Ordered, That the Petitioners cause an attested copy of their petition, with this Order, and upon, to be served on them, successively in the Commercial Gazette and Morning Post, two newspapers printed in said City of Boston, eight days, at least, before the twentieth day of February next, that all persons interested, may then appear, and shew cause, if any they have, why the Prayer of said Petition should not be granted.

Sent down for concurrence,

CHARLES CALHOUN, Clerk.

In the House of Representatives, Aug. 28, 1836.

Concurred,

L. S. CUSHING, Clerk.

A True Copy—Attest,

CHARLES CALHOUN, Clerk of the Senate.

STEAM ENGINES.—A saving of at least one half the expense of fuel is offered to all steam engines which adopt Goulding's Patent Boilers. These Boilers can be placed upright, or laid horizontally; they are particularly adapted to the use of hard coal, and are applicable to all engines now in operation, including Steam Boats. Several are in use at Mr. Alger's Foundry at South Boston. One of the Cheapest Boats is provided with them; several others are in use in Boston and the vicinity.

Satisfactory demonstration of the advantages which these tanks offer will be given by the subscriber to all persons desirous of saving from one half to 2 thirds of the expense of running their engines, besides the economy of room obtained by using upright instead of horizontal Boilers.

Boilers are respectfully applied to him, at the Warehouse of the Boston India Rubber Co., No 8 State street, or to E. Copeland, Jr., No. 65 Broad St.

BAKING ESTABLISHMENT.—No 122 Court st.

The subscriber (late owner of WINSLOW & HEWES) respectfully informs his friends and the public, that he has sold the above establishment, formerly occupied by Mr. S. B. Burnham, where he intends carrying on the BAKING business in all its various branches.

The undersigned would take this opportunity to return thanks to his old patrons, for their liberal favors; and to express his regret that any untoward circumstances should have prevented for a time his supplying them with bread manufactured under his own supervision. He wishes to assure his friends and the public, that he will endeavor to supply all their calls and wants, with bread of every kind, of the very first order.

His French Rolls, in particular, which have given so much satisfaction heretofore, will be found to possess their usual excellent qualities—rich, nutritive, healthful, sweet—and they who may discover the absence of these qualities where they have found them very recently, may find them now by calling as above. His Family Bread, too, he may say with confidence, will give no less satisfaction than formerly, and will spare no pains to make both the Rolls and Family Bread of uniform excellence.

A supply of every variety of Cake will be kept constantly on hand; and a share of public patronage is respectfully solicited.

JABEZ FISHER HEWES, Agent.

STENOGRAPHIC GLIMPSES OF CONGRESS.

Washington, January 26, 1836.

Senate.—Mr Southard finished the day in finishing his speech, commenced yesterday. Time is of no great value in this body, especially to the opposition, otherwise they would not be so prodigal of it, as to let Mr Southard occupy them two days on a subject that has only relation to the past, which cannot be recalled. The present and the future ought to occupy their thoughts—the public concerns, not private piques and partizan warfare. Is Mr Southard capable of soaring above the fogs and bogies of his party into the regions of patriotism? If he be, let him make one sincere effort to get out of the party fens; if he is unable, why then let him quack and flutter and waddle, like a wounded mallard, amidst the brakes and brambles and pools and puddles of his party. The men—no, the monsters!—who oppose the government in the present crisis of the country, will be hereafter hunted down like the Hartford-Conventionists of the last war, or the Tories of the Revolution. Will the name of Whig save them? What scoundrel cannot assume an "alias?"—but what honest man ever changes his name? What an infamous epithet will they have for their memories! what an inheritance of infamy to their posterity!

House.—My Cambreleng has tried two days to get the floor to explain the loss of the last year's appropriation bill; in my opinion, it would be far wiser and better to propose and support one now to supply its loss. Of what consequence is the reproach or charge of the opposition? Is not their applause and commendation enough to damn every party and every measure? Have they not themselves been damned by them?—how then can their adversaries hope to be saved by them? No man can mend what the Ex-President has done on this subject; and it is not in the power of men to undo it. I am sorry to see the House wasting that time in debate that should be devoted to action. To-day the chairman of the Committee of Foreign Affairs, Mr Mason of Va., submitted a resolution requiring certain days to be devoted to the consideration of appropriation bills; the day was wasted in debating the propriety of adopting the measure. Mr Bell made a powerful argument against it, which only shows what an able speaker can say on any side he espouses. Judge Sutherland replied, and refuted him. He never goes beyond the range of the question, and conveys all his arguments to the main point. His conclusions are always conclusive. He never speaks for effect, but results. He is always, therefore, listened to with attention, and his opinions never fail to have their influence. Mr Mason, the Chairman, made a very able argument in support of his Resolutions, which could not fail of convincing both sides, and satisfying all, but the opposition; to them, the more convincing, the more unsatisfactory, an argument.

Many other members partook in the debate; but I shan't descend to their angry colloquies. As to any reproach cast upon the administration party for the loss of "the bill," the best way they can wipe it off, is by passing a new bill without delay, a fresh victory will silence all reproach.

"Once more into the breach, dear friends once more!"

REIS EPPENDI.

Washington, January 27, 1836.

I ought to have added to the just praise I bestowed upon Mr Cushing's speech on Monday—and I scorn to retract it—that it was written and lay before him. No man need be ashamed of not being wise above what is written. Mr Wilde, of Ga., used to prepare his speeches in the same way; and no man in Congress delivered more learned and forcible ones; and they excelled all others in keenness of satire, or delicacy of compliment—in classical allusion, or beauty of illustration. Did Gov. Everett ever deliver a speech without writing it? I presume not. Burke is said to have written his speeches. I never could see, therefore, why so much stress of reproach has been laid upon Senator Hill's writing his speeches, unless it be, that he is a supporter of the administration. That which is not well prepared is not worth having. Memory is only the treasury of the mind, not its treasure; and if a man cannot depend on his memory, he is certainly right and wise to commit his thoughts to paper; if they are worthy of being read when printed, I see no reason why they should be deteriorated by being written before they are spoken, more especially, as a thousand read a speech where one can hear it.

Senate.—Judge White delivered a speech on the "lost bill."

House.—Mr Cambreleng made a speech on Mr Adams's Resolutions, in defence of the conduct of the House and Committee on the "lost bill." Mr Read, of Massachusetts, replied, not to him, but to the charge against the Senate, so ably arraigned by the Ex-President. Mr Hardin has the floor to-morrow. All this I count as lost time; and have but this consolation, that it excludes Slavery speeches, and keeps abolition and the agitators at bay. I am tired and disgusted with the scandalous prostration of the most important public business. I however will not now suspend my time in useless regrets, or equally useless censure. They must work out their own salvation, which may be perchance with fear and trembling.

REIS EPPENDI.

Mediation of England.—A letter from a highly respectable gentleman at Norfolk, received at New York, says that the writer had conversed with Capt. Corey, of the British brig-of-war Pantaloons, and also with the British Consul at Norfolk, both of whom say positively that the brig is sent for the purpose of tendering the mediation of England on the subject of our differences with France. The nature of the mediation proposed, may, perhaps, be judged of by the following extract from the London Morning Chronicle (government paper) of Dec. 12.—

"Under all the circumstances, and in the character just described, [that of mediator] our cabinet would be justified in stating on one hand to that of France, that the latter ought to pay the money on Mr Livingston's first explanation, and on the other hand, to that of America, that its president ought officially to give the sanction of his authority to Mr Livingston's explanation."

Nassau, N. P.—The Texian Volunteers—Jamaica.—By dates from Nassau to Jan. 6th, at Charleston, we learn that between the 24th and 25th Dec. there passed Sturp's Key, Berry Islands, no less than 130 vessels. There had arrived a ship with 500 white German emigrants, which ship had previously already brought a similar number.—N. Y. Star.

We have received a sensibly written Sermon, preached in favor of Abolishing Capital Punishment, by Rev. A. Caverne, of Great Falls, N. H.

*Mrs. Pelby takes a benefit at the Warren this evening. "Mary Tudor" is the principal piece; it is an excellent play, and gotten up and performed in a manner worthy of its high merits. It has attracted much notice in the literary, as well as in the dramatic world. Mr. Bulwer, in his notes on France, comments upon it as an important feature in modern French literature, and as evidence of the rare talents of its gifted author, Victor Hugo, who is admitted by all conversant with his works, to be one of the most powerful writers of the age. Yet the Traveller pronounces "Mary Tudor" a "humbug!" We will lay a sixpence that he has never read the original or listened to the translation. We believe this in charity, for no man of common understanding could have done either the one or the other, and utter the opinion delivered by the Traveller. This denunciation is particularly ungenerous when we consider the circumstances attending the presentation of the piece to a Boston public. It is an indirect slur upon the commendable and—we are pleased to add—successful efforts of a lady to acquire that reputation her talents and industry entitle her to.—Mrs. ASHURBY—by whom it has been translated in a manner which would be creditable to our best scholars. Her language is pure and forcible, and retains the high spirit of her author in a remarkable degree. An amiable and unprotected female, who is ardently and honorably striving to obtain a livelihood by the exercise of her talents, deserves the benefit of an impartial judgment, at least, from the 'lords of the creation.' Those who wish for an agreeable, exciting, and intellectual entertainment, we advise to witness the performance of "Mary Tudor" this evening at the Warren; and if the audience there, at the fall of the curtain, do not agree with us in our opinion of its excellence, nemine contradicente, we will apply to ourselves the epithet by which it is designated in the Traveller.*

*The Tremont—Reeve, who is said to be the querest of all odd fish—Bass excepted—brows to-night before a Boston audience—he made a faux pas upon his first appearance in New York, but took a hint from it which will profit him here, and enable the public to enjoy his eccentric and singular powers of amusement to the fullest extent, without experiencing anything to detract from their merriment.*

The Lion intends to roar loud this evening—the stage-manager has procured a hundred men for his hungry maw, upon the occasion.

Mr Secretary Woodbury, in his late letter to Congress, relative to Custom Houses, thus alludes to the contemplated one here:—

"In the general appropriation act of the last session, Congress granted the sum of fifty thousand dollars, for the purchase of a site and building a custom-house, in the city of Boston, in addition to what may be obtained by a sale of the present custom-house; provided a suitable site can be obtained, and a custom-house, satisfactory to the Secretary of the Treasury, can be built to cost not exceeding these appropriations for that purpose." During the past summer I visited Boston, with a view of making a personal examination of the different sites suggested by the merchants of that city as most suitable; and of deciding on the sufficiency of the appropriation to purchase one of them, and erect on it a proper building. After full investigation, I found that no central site could be purchased, and a suitable building erected thereon, which would duly accommodate the increasing business of that flourishing port, for the sum named in the appropriation, and I therefore beg leave to recommend that an additional sum of one hundred thousand dollars be appropriated towards this object."

The Secretary merits the thanks of Bostonians for his prompt recommendation, which is so perfectly proper and necessary, that it will, without doubt, be complied with.

An excellent plan for preventing duelling.—A bill has been introduced into the Legislature of Louisiana, which if passed into a law, will put a final stop to the practice of duelling. Among its provisions are the following:—

"The bill guarantees to the creditors of the deceased, killed in duel, a full payment from the property of the surviving party, and right to sue for the same. In case of injury sustained in body whereby the party is unable to labor for his, or his family's support, or to make good all legal demands against himself incurred before or after said injury, the party injured shall be compelled to support the party injured and his family, and to make good at the hazard of the law's disqualification demand for the same—shall forfeit to the nearest surviving relative the sum of—thousand dollars, and should they fail to claim for one year, the claim shall be legal in the hand of the next oldest relative. That the evidence of the dying party is good and legal with regard to all claims against himself, and the testimony of his second valid and placed beyond impeachment, for whatever evidence he may under other circumstances have given. Which bill was read the first time and ordered to be printed."

A Contemptible Hoax exposed.—We have seen a copy of a letter signed Samuel Merritt, which is said to have been found in a bottle on Newport beach, which states that that the sch. Angelia, Capt. Wheeler, (with nine persons on board, including two passengers, belonging to Boston, named J. Vaut, and Stackpole) was boarded by a piratical schooner on the 26th January—that the pirates robbed the vessel—killed four of the men—took four with them—and then sentled her and set her on fire—and that the writer (then in an open boat 50 miles South of Block Island,) was during the time secreted in the main top. The writer adds that his parents reside in South Boston, and that the pirates were Spaniards.

The Angelia, Capt. Wheeler, arrived 24th, and sailed from Holmes' Hole, the 26th inst., for Portland.

The Pilot, an able conducted Catholic paper in this city, exposes the true character of Maria Monk's pretended Mediation of England on the subject of our differences with France. The nature of the mediation proposed, may, perhaps, be judged of by the following extract from the London Morning Chronicle (government paper) of Dec. 12.—

"Under all the circumstances, and in the character just described, [that of mediator] our cabinet would be justified in stating on one hand to that of France, that the latter ought to pay the money on Mr Livingston's first explanation, and on the other hand, to that of America, that its president ought officially to give the sanction of his authority to Mr Livingston's explanation."

The despatches reached Washington on the 27th ultimo.

When Bass was confined in the Leverett street jail, a fellow brought to him one day a dish of most miserable broth, and casually asked him how he liked the jailor.—

"Why," said Bass, taking a most vigorous snuff at the stews—I think Bad-lam superior to bad mutton, any time!

The Concord people are all alive about the petition to have the Supreme and Common Pleas Courts hold an annual session in Lowell—they say it will never do, in the world—but we guess it must, though.

MASSACHUSETTS LEGISLATURE.

Saturday Jan. 30.—In the Senate, the State Bank Memorial, remonstrating against the mode of conducting the proposed Bank Investigation, created an animated discussion upon the question of concurring with the House in referring it to the Investigating Committee. Many Senators regarded the spirit, if not the language of the Memorialists, as insolent towards the Legislature. The Senate adjourned without taking the question.

In the House.—Mr Thompson of Charlestown, presented a remonstrance against the memorial of the proprietors of Charles river Bridge, which was referred to the Committee on Warren Bridge, with instructions to cause the same to be printed.

On motion of Mr Blaile, it was ordered that the Treasurer of the Commonwealth be instructed to ascertain and report to the House, the aggregate amount of money which has been received by the Treasury, for taxes on the several banking corporations within the Commonwealth, since the first establishment of any such corporation, together with the lawful interest on the sums so received, to the present time.

It was ordered on motion of Mr Buckingham, that the committee to which was referred that portion of the Governor's Address which relates to Warren Bridge, be instructed to report a resolve, expressing the wish of this Legislature that the case now pending in the Supreme Court of the United States between this Commonwealth and the Proprietors of Charles river Bridge, may be heard and determined at the present term of that Court.

The Memorial of the President and Directors of the State Bank was referred to the Investigating Committee. The subject of swearing the officers was commented on as being in contravention of the statute against extra-judicial oaths. Several motions to refer the question to the Attorney-General were proposed, and withdrawn, with the understanding, that it is to form a distinct subject of investigation during the coming week.

To Samuel T. Armstrong, Esq., Mayor of the city of Boston:—

Sir—Some persons, generally understood to act by authority, are liberally supplied with printed notices which are daily thrust into the entries of unpretending citizens who live in the remote parts of the city, commanding them to remove snow and ice from the side walks adjoining their respective domiciles. We are also informed that some of our mechanics have been compelled to pay costs for leaving a few stones near the side walk in Temple street, and some folks are so illiberal as to hint that your Honor moved in this business personally. Now we are among the number who desire that all the wholesome laws and ordinances of our city should be strictly obeyed, but we also desire an even hand should be used in correcting abuses. We think before our retired citizens should be annoyed by these terrible notices to remove ice and snow from their side walks, that pattern of usefulness and efficiency, the City Marshal, should have mounted his horse and rode as far as Derne street school house, where he might have seen a job requiring something more than a printed notice; and should this journey be too fatiguing for the Marshal, the distance from City Hall to Court street is not great, and certainly is not without the pale of the duties of that active officer. Again, before the mechanics in Temple street had been put to costs for a slight infringement of the public rights, some individuals go so far as to say your Honor might have looked at a huge piece of granite directly upon the public passage way in Court street, near the new Court House, which was allowed to remain there and interrupt passengers for months. An equal execution of our laws and ordinances will meet the approbation of all our CITIZENS.

Steam Boat Accident.—The steam boat President, Capt. Coleman, left New York on Thursday morning at 9 o'clock, having with great difficulty got out of the dock. The ice was very thick, for about twenty miles, through which she forced a passage—and even as far as Black Rock the Sound was covered with ice, although thin. She arrived below here, about 10 o'clock yesterday morning, and commenced breaking through the ice—but it was soon discovered that her false bow had been completely cut through, about two feet below the water line, the aperture being closed up with ice; on clearing away which, the water poured in with great violence. The boat was immediately put about for Bristol, but fearing that she would become unmanageable by settling at the head, she was run ashore at Canavint Point, where she remained until low water, when the leak was stopped, and she proceeded to Bristol. Passengers represent the weather as extremely inclement at New York and through the Sound; and award the highest praise to Capt. Coleman, and his pilot, Capt. Walden, for their conduct under perilous circumstances. The injury to the boat is slight, and will be repaired without delay. The President passed the Bazaar Hill near New York, on Thursday noon.—

Key West, January 14, 1836.

Notice to Mariners.—In consequence of the encroachments of the Indians, the Light House at Cape Florida has been abandoned. It is expected, however, that the light will be re-established in the course of a few days.

The Globe states that Major General Scott was ordered last week to Florida to take command and conduct the operations in that quarter; and with full authority to call upon the Executives of South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, and Florida, for whatever military force may be necessary. He has been directed to push the campaign in the most vigorous manner, and to reduce the Indians to unconditional submission.

Fears are entertained for the safety of the troops at Camp King under Gen. Clinch—mainly because they are supposed to be short of ammunition.

At Picolat and Jacksonville, on the St. Johns, as well as at St. Augustine, alarm is felt lest the Indians should attack them.

The Governor of Georgia has invited the aid of volunteer companies to proceed to Florida.

At attempt was made to set fire to the out-buildings attached to the Training-field street School House, in Charlestown, about 12 o'clock on Saturday night. It was happily discovered and extinguished by the watchman.

MOUNT WASHINGTON HOUSE.
THE WARREN ASSOCIATION are now erecting near the heights of South Boston, a brick house intended for a genteel boarding house or hotel of the following description—

It is one hundred and sixteen feet front—has two wings each forty feet deep—five stories high and will contain about two hundred and twenty rooms. On the top of the house will be an observatory, emplaced on one of the most commanding views in this vicinity. There is a never failing supply of pure spring water, soft enough for all domestic purposes.

The house will be ready for occupancy, early in summer, and the proprietors are desirous of contracting with some person to keep the same, who is fully qualified to conduct such an establishment with credit to himself and satisfaction of his guests.

Persons willing to obtain further information may call on the subscriber to whom written proposals may be addressed, on or before the 15th February next.
